HE "TREATY PORTS OF OMINA & JAPAN." AND "NOTES AND QUERIES ON CHINA AND JAPAN."

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS. (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year 'Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see oct I that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. terest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better

(From the "Straits Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has For SINGAPORE,again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which Per doz. qts. 30s deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on thing and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saiut, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, litera-78 ture, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

(From the "London Examiner," May This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan"] is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys; and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds, considerably enhance its value. * * * We have thus given in outline some of the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghae, and the remainder of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to European readers respecting its history, public buildings, and general characteristics, that we would fain transfer them to our columns. A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places.

In the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography, and limits, which will be found particularly interesting as throwing a considerable light on a part of the world so long entirely, and still comparatively, unknown to Europeans. The descriptions of Nagasaki, Yedo, Yokohame, and the other Treaty Ports of Japan, are as elaborate and entertaining as those of the Chinese ports. A copious index and a useful appendix containing many ,, Non-Resident Boarders, $55 per month. hints and much appropriate advice to travellers and others, is also included in the volume. The entire work affords a vast amount of information, pleasantly written, and we doubt not will be perused with interest by many who will never visit the

Ross Browne upon the Mineral Resources of the States and territories West of the Rocky Mountains is of so voluminous a nature that any attempt to "review" the bulky volume is almost useless. Much resembling a dictionary or encyclopædia, its pages teem with details which as matters of reference appear of great value, but which the boldest reader would shrink from perusing in consecutive order, unless indeed he resembles the celebrated west countryman who read through the words under the first three letters of Johnson's Dictionary and remarked that, "There was a power o' larning, but it wor very disnerve had been strained to a connected like." We have heard some depreciatory remarks regarding Mr Browne's work based upon the fact that it was only a compilation. of the work we subjoin a condensed extract: the story of the Mariposa Estate: The Mariposa Estate, or Fremont Grant. as it is sometimes called, contains 44,380 acres, or about 70 square miles. The grant was made while California was under the dominion of Mexico, to Juan B. Alvarado. and it was purchased in 1847 by J. C. Fremont, who presented his claim for the land to the United States land commission, and it was finally confirmed to him, and the natent was issued February, 1856. The original grant was of land suitable for graging purposes in the basin of the Mariposa river, but the boundaries were not fixed. and the grantee had the right of locating the claim on any land within a large area. When the grant was to be surveyed Fremont said he wanted a long strip of land in the low-land on both banks of the Mariposa river; but the United States surveyor told him the survey must be in a compact form Then, instead of taking a compact area of swung his grant round and covered the valuable Pine Tree and Josephine mines, near the Mercede river, besides a number of others which had been in the undisputed possession of miners, who had long been familiar with Fremont, and had never Personal indignation thus came in to emgrantee had no right to the minerals. and the American law spoke of a confirmation, not an enlargement, of the Mexican title. Here then was another subject for litigation, and at last in 1859, matter was settled by a decision that an American patent for land carries the mine rals with it. The adverse claimants defied the officers of the law; the mines were couverted into fortifications; the mouths of the tunnels were barricaded: there were besiegers and besieged; several men were killed; but, at last, in 1859. Fremout triumphed, and under his Mexican grant obtained land which the Mexican government did not intend to grant, and minerals which it systematically reserved.

In a short time after the title was satisfactorily settled the yield of gold from the quartz mines of the estate became very $94,000; in April, $92,000; and in May, The production seemed to have reached the figure of $100,000 per month. with a fair prospect of still further increase. It was at this time that the estate was sold to an incorporated company in New York city, and the stock put upon the market in the midst of the San Francisco mining stock fever, which extended its influence across the continent. The prospectus of the company presented a very attractive picture to speculators. The average monthly yield for three years and a half had been $50,000, and for half a year the net profits had equalled that sum. The reports of various mining, engineers, indicated that the results of future workings would be still

The company was organized by Frémont's creditors, who had become owners of the property. The new company selected Mr F. L. Olmsted for their manager, and he took charge of the estate on the 14th November. 1864. He found everything in confusion. The production had fallen off very suddenly after the sale. It seemed as if every nerve had been strained to make the yield of May as large as possible, and that as sistent with the policy which has led Her soon as the sale was made the production | Majesty to give her sanction to a means decreased more than 50 per cent. The of raising a royal revenue from the legayield for the first five months of 1863 before the sale was $385,000, and during the last six after the sale was $186,993. In the former period there was a net profit of $50,000 per month in the latter a net is no proof of the fact. loss of $80,000. The company did not succeed in raising the money to pay their most pressing debts, and the estate was placed in the hands of Dodge Brothers, creditors, for the purpose of enabling them to work it and pay their own and others' debts. The trustees found, according to their own statement, that they had spent more at the end of a year than they had received; and the company being dissatisfied, brought suit and obtained the appointment of a receiver, who is now (May, 1867) in possession.

This is rather illustrative of the curious system of annexation pursued by unserupulous squatters than of any particular skill in recounting the incidents, but gives a fair idea of the general composition of the work. We regret that we have not room for statistics of a more valuable, if less readable, character. As a careful compilation this work will rank deservedly high in the topographical literature of Mr Brown's native state.

As a specimen of the narrative portions | There seems to be some doubt in the minds of foreigners as to the effect of the Governor's recent notification that only | teers, individuals of Chinese, Indian, or Malay races, shall be admitted into any of the licensed gambling-or, as H. E. euphemistically calls them, "play"—houses in Hongkong. Does a foreigner, of any disregarding this order? That is, should an American or European be found 'playing" in these houses, does he become liable, under the 19th clause of the Ordinance, to a penalty for violating the "rule or regulation framed and passed by the Governor in Council," by which lows:his exclusion is meant? Or, does the penalty fall only on the tenant who 'admits" him to the licensed tables We fancy the latter to be the case, for it can hardly be supposed that the Gograzing land and worthless mountain, he vernor presumes to interfere with personal liberty in so direct and unconstitutional a manner as the alternative would suggest. It is probable that this endeayour to prevent foreign "play" is part of His Excellency's design to "gradually heard the least intimation from him that he | control and ultimately suppress" th would in any event lay claim to their works. | evils of gambling; and we have a right to suppose that—if this is so—His Excelbitter a quarrel involving large pecuniary lency has surrendered a proportion of namely equal to one third of the receipts. The passion for gambling in this Colony is not confined to the Chinese, as His Excellency appears to have found out. The evil results of the indulgence of that passion, under His Excellency's sanction, and by Her Majesty's permission, have long been known generally; and the individual of Chinese, Indian, or Malay Government to indirectly make its thousands of dollars per annum out of the wages of house coolies and horse boys, from the dishonesty of native servants, Richard MacDonnell appears to think that it is, and that while the Englishman or American, the Frenchman or the Prussian, are "ordered" not to "play," enlightened Parsee to the most ignorant coolie of this colony, are at perfect liberty to indulge in the vice which has proved so profitable to Her Majesty's treasury of Hongkong. Is the profit to continue under these altered circumstances It is no use "pausing for a reply," because we shall not get any until His Exgislative Council. But we shall get a sight of the Estimates some time or other. and shall bear this matter of the gambling revenue in mind, It would not convey a very exalted idea of British fairness to lease a business to a man at a high rent, and then to interpose forcibly to prevent an access of customers:

THE second performance for the benefit of Miss Marion Hartley took place at the Garrison Theatre on Saturday evening. It was well attended, and the actors and actress acquitted themselves with eclat. The farce of the Unfinished Gentleman formed the after piece, but the hour approached when "churchyards yawn and graves give up their dead," before the piece was half over, and so the gentleman was perforce left in an incomplete state. Thynne has become so dignified from "o' th' inn"-pointing to John the ostler the boots. The word Smith has innumerable ramifications, branching out on one side into the aristocratic Smythes or Smyjths, and on the other reaching the ground as Smithers, Smoot, and Smut. The curious surname Death is a corruption of D'Aeth, indicating a Flemish origin, as Aeth is a town in Flanders. In a recent police-court case at Liverpool the witnesses and solicitor bore the ominous names of Death, Debt, and Daggers. D'Aeth is still the name of an old family of country rank in Kent. There is a tendency, as etymologists have observed, on the part of the vulgar to corrupt words which appear obscure into such as have a meaning this way Deville has come naturally to be Devil, and Eville, Evil; just as the sailors used to turn Bellerophon into Billy Ruffian, and the groom made Old Fellow and Thursday Morning of two horses called Othello and Desdemona. In this way St. Fierre becomes Simper, and D'Ypres. Draper. Some of the names quoted by Mr. Charnock in his amusing volume seem, however o defy analysis. The mind wanders into an endless maze at the sight of such a name as Apostles, Achates, Curius, Bar-quarrel, Argument, Flora, Thousand-pound, Hatred, or Odium. Cat is accounted for by Catherine, but what are we to make of Pussy. or Rat, as surnames? Whence come Bultitude, and should it be Multitude, pronounced with a cold in the head? All-blaster is probably a purposed corruption of Alabaster : but how any human beings can consent to go through life with such names as Incarnation, Amen. And, Bitch, Art, Bab. Coon, Demon, Pimple, Much, Ought, Off, Sex, or Onions, is a profound conundrum. Of the family of the Bottoms there are, bes des Bottom, pure and simple, Ashen-Higginbottom, Oakenbottom, Pitchbottom, Ramsbottom, Rosebottom, Rowhottom, Shipperbottom, Shufflebottom, Tarbottom, Longbottom, and Sidebottom, besides a good many more. These, of course, are various derivations from the Anglo-Saxon botm, a valley, and re all respectable territorial designations. Mr Charnock gives us a kind of dictionary of the more curious surnames, with their meanings and derivations. From the nature of the subject he cannot be otherwise than amusing, but there is also much curious learning interesting to the student of philology. The only fault we have to find with our author is, that he is too fond of running after simply facetions derivations, and of neglecting his etymology. He is also much given to random guessing, sometime of a puerile kind, as when of the name Tugwell he observes that it is borne by dentists, shoemakers, &c. He often leaves us in the lurch with a simple reference t Lower or to Bowditch when we expect from him an elucidation of a word, and perpetually speaks of "some local name" in explanation of a surname, without helping us to discover what the name is, and to trace the connexion. But withal, he has produced a lively and interesting book, which must henceforth form a necessary part of the literature of the subject.

"Scoresby in 1822 approached the coast in the same season, nay, on the same day, June 8, but a degree lower south (740 10) north lat.), and had to cruise about till July 27 before he could effect his first land ing. As the season advances the task becomes easier. Thus the Sabine-Clavering expedition in August, 1823, traversed the ice within a few days. Perhaps, therefore, our Germania has by this time already got over the worst. The worst that can happen to a ship is to be kept beleaguered in the ice and to have to withstand storms in it. Both things happened to the expedition. But these difficulties and dangers are not so great to the east as to the west of Greenland, where many English expeditions have Whenever an expedition stuck in the ice there, two or three years used to pass before anything was heard of it, while we have had news after scarcely five weeks. I have, 'the captain writes, 'collected much assful experience as to the ice already, and I say it is not so dangerous that with caution and circumspection you cannot get on comfortably in it. Do not, therefore, in spite of the bad weather, give up hope. The temperature has always kept between + 2° and - 2° R. We have not had it colder than - 2° yet. We are in the best condition possible. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. HIS Medicine is universally admitted to be the most efficacious remedy known to the world. No preparation is so suitable to the climates of India and China as this fine and invigorating medicine. It is particularly adapted to the constitution of European ladies, as it is never failing in its effects in all diseases peculiar to females, while those who are attenuated by the debilitating effects of the above climates will find in this wonderful remedy a kind of talisman whereby they may insure a restoration to robust health.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. The science of Medicine has never before produced any remedy that can be compared to this wonderful Ointment, as it cures after all other means have failed, all wounds, sores, ulcers, and also the most inveterate skin diseases peculiar to the climates of India and China. It is the true friend of the Soldier and Civilian, as certain old sores can be removed by it that cannot be conquered by any other treat-
